ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Diane Elson is a professor in the Department of Sociology and the Human Rights Centre at the University of Essex in the United Kingdom. She was the coordinator of UNIFEM's Progress of the World's Women 2000 and is an adviser to UNIFEM on gender responsive budgets. She is the author of many papers on gender and development and is a member of the UN MDG Task Force on Education and Gender (Goals 2 and 3).

Hande Keklik is a consultant in the UNIFEM Economic Security and Rights section. She also was a member of the team that prepared Progress of the World's Women 2000. She is a Ph.d. candidate at the University of Utah in the United States, researching the care economy with a particular concentration on domestic workers.

Several people offered advice and technical expertise in creating this picture of the progress of women worldwide. Compiling an up-to-date and comprehensive set of figures has not been an easy task and would not have been possible without the help of Jens Johansen at the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), Sophia Lawrence at the International Labour Organization (ILO), Emmanuel Boudard at the Human Development Report Office and Teresa Vald s, coordinator of the Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales (FLACSO) Chile.

The ongoing support of UNIFEM's bi-lateral partners has been essential to publishing Progress of the World's Women. The Department for International Development (DfID) of the UK and the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC) have been steadfast supporters of this publication since its inception. Many others, too numerous to name, have contributed by supporting the UNIFEM programmes that generate the inspiration and information upon which this book is based.

In addition, Joanne Sandler, deputy director for Programmes at UNIFEM, has championed and monitored this project since its inception, and provided support and insight through many drafts. Karen Judd and Zazie Schafer, also of UNIFEM, offered criticism and encouragement throughout the process. And finally Noeleen Heyzer, Executive Director of UNIFEM provided important inputs and guidance throughout. Her leadership in the effort to improve women's lives has been an inspiration to all.
